

Information for Participants

Project name:

Remote Engagement and Coordination – Indigenous Evaluation Research (REC-IER)

Researchers: Michaela Spencer, Jen Macdonald, Helen Verran, Matthew Campbell, Michael Christie

Purpose of the Project:

The project works with Indigenous and non-Indigenous, government and non-government workers, and with community members in three remote NT communities – Galiwin'ku, Ngukurr and Ntaria – to:

- Work with CDU along with government workers to develop systems to provide feedback to government about communication, engagement and coordinating in our community.
- To find out about the capacities of remote community based researchers and groups of researchers, and what they need to make them strong.
- Then to develop local research and evaluation capacity.
- Work together to find good ways of reporting how we have worked and what we have learnt.

Benefits of the Project:

- Government organisations will be able to better engage with our community, coordinate their activities and communicate effectively.
- Growing a strong group of local researchers and evaluators working with elders in the community to do research and evaluation work.

What will be expected of you:

We would like to work with you, listen to your ideas, and learn from you. As we develop reports on our research, we will make sure that your ideas are represented, and that you are happy with the way we work together. You can finish up your work with the project at any time.

Person to contact:

If you have any questions, you can contact Michaela on 0487463850, Jen on 0458258407, Matt on 0429408379 or Helen on 0400913103.

If, during the course of the project you have any concerns about the project or the researcher, you may contact the Executive Officer of the Charles Darwin University Human Research Ethics Committee, who is not connected with this project and who can pass on your concerns to appropriate officers within the University. The Executive Officer can be contacted on (08) 8946 6498, toll-free on 1800 466 215, or by e-mail cdu-ethics@cdu.edu.au.
